Commission to Be Appointed
Having This in View.

New York Physician Declares That the Metropolitan Factors Better Than Small Cities and Country Places Because of Rigid Rules.

At a meeting Thursday evening at the medical college under the auspices of the Burlington and Chittenden County Health, Dr. G. R. P. of New York City gave an address on the "Establishment and Value of a Milk Commission for the City of Burlington." Members of the Commercial club, the Clinical society and dairymen were present and listened with interest to Dr. P.'s address and to the informal discussion that followed. As a result of the meeting a resolution was made that the president of the society appoint six physicians, members of the society, to act as a milk commission, the commission to meet the milkmen and form rules regarding cleanliness in the production and selling of milk. This milk, after being examined at the State laboratory, and found to reach a certain standard in cleanliness, butter fat, etc., will be known as certified milk and will be labeled as such. After the first of June the new city charter will compel every person selling milk in this city to register and pay a certain license fee, which will enable the commission to know every milk dealer.

In his address Dr. P. said that milk was the most unclean of any food brought to the table and in advising the establishing of a milk commission. He said that in New York the milk sold was of a better quality than in small cities and in the country districts, because of a milk commission who enforced rigid rules there. In order to have clean milk he said that the farmer must first see that the cow is free from disease, secondly, that no diseased milk and there should be handled the cow, thirdly, that the cow should be brushed and her udders cleaned with a damp cloth, that no children or domestic animals should be allowed in the stables and that clean clothes should be worn in the stable. He said that bacteria grow rapidly in warm milk, that the milk should be kept cool, placed in clean sterilized cans and then into sealed bottles. Milk under those conditions, he said, kept sweet for three weeks on an Atlantic trip. He said that milk should not be kept above a temperature of 45 degrees before reaching the consumer. The advantages of certified milk, he said, would be found in a reduced infant mortality and the lessening of infectious diseases, such as typhoid fever, etc., among children and adults. He said that sterilizing deadened the milk but that it was better than unclean milk.

An informal discussion followed among physicians and dairymen, which proved of mutual advantage. The milk dealers were inclined to think that if they produced certified milk they ought to receive more than the present quart. Other dairymen said that it would be hard to sell certified milk at a high price when creameries about town were selling it for four cents. Dr. Lyman Allen will name the members of the milk commission at the next meeting of the Clinical society.

They All Demand It.

Burlington, Like Every City
and Town in the Union, Receives It.

People with kidney trouble want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies today that relieve, but do not cure. Here is evidence to prove that Doan's Kidney Pills cure, and the cure is lasting.

Mr. E. Miller, of 11 So. Champlain St., Burlington, Vt., says: "My back was so lame and painful that at times I couldn't stand erect. I was tired and had headaches and a blurring before my eyes. When I took cold it always settled in my kidneys and on a damp day the symptoms were sure to be more noticeable. I finally became so bad that I could not get around without the use of a cane. I was in pretty bad condition when I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Park Drug Store and began using them. A few doses helped me and a continuation of their use brought still further benefits. I was soon in better health every way. After the feeling of weakness left me, I had no more of the spots before my eyes and could get along nicely without the use of my cane. I have told many people of the benefits I have derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills."

ex-Mayor Burke on the eve of his re-burial of the executive office. In the case of Officer Murphy the only charge was physical disqualification to discharge the duties of a regular officer. Mr. Murphy consented to send in his resignation as a regular policeman and Mayor Bissell agreed to give him an appointment which would give him an opportunity to continue his service in the fire patrol.

It was stated that Officer Finerman was 53 years old at the time he was appointed to the regular force, but by the rules of the police examiners, he was consequently disqualified from serving. The charge against him was sustained.

It was charged against Officer Rothman that while doing police duty in the fire patrol he failed to attend the clocks on his beat on the nights of April 16, 17 and 18, being asleep at his post. He made no appearance at the hearing and the charges against him were sustained.

HAILS VERMONT AT 98.

Oldest Woman in Harvard City Says:
"Proud of Vermont."

The oldest known woman in Cambridge, Mass., is Mrs. Sarah Webster Dow, 98 years old, a former resident of Vermont, born at Danville, April 25, 1809. All over this State are living relatives of the woman, who has resided in Massachusetts for 25 years, making occasional visits to Vermont and New Hampshire relatives.

Mrs. Dow's husband died 25 years ago. He was well known all over Vermont before his death. His widow still possesses her faculties, upholds the Green Mountain State as her birthplace and "one of the best States in the Union." To a reporter she said: "Yes, I am a Vermont and I am proud of my State. It is small, in population, but look over the men it has produced and you will find a record few States can excel."

DIVORCE DENIED.

Petition of Alexander Miller Dismissed

The divorce petition of Alexander Miller vs. Mabel Steady Miller was Friday dismissed by Judge Hall in Chittenden county court. The Millers had filed counter petitions but in court Thursday afternoon, J. J. Barrett, attorney for Mrs. Miller, stated that she did not ask for a hearing on her petition. Mr. Miller had testified and Mrs. Miller was on the stand Friday morning when Judge Hall summarily dismissed the petition.

This was an action in which the plaintiff sought to recover a little less than $100 for goods sold to Montpelier parties on Schutake's endorsement. The defendant's costs were $104. The plaintiff appealed the case.

Fifty-four cases of German measles are reported in lower Cabot to April 20, believed to be not more than two-thirds the total owing to failure to inform the health officer.

Each year from Bennington, snow at some places in the mountains is still a foot or more deep. Logging operations in the woods for short distances are still conducted on sleds.

One reason for the popularity of motor boating on the Connecticut river at Bellows Falls is due to the fact that there are nearly 35 miles of navigable water north of this point.

The Rev. Joseph Hamilton of Woodstock is said to be the senior active member of the Vermont Methodist conference. He has held his office for 30 years.

The Central Vermont has refused all freight in carload lots consigned to Brattleboro and will maintain the embargo until the car collection in the railway yard is remedied.

Petty thieving of brass fittings from machines and engines at Barre has been reported to the city council. Parts which cost $25 to replace are stolen and sold for 4 or 5 cents as old metal.

Former Chief George W. Danton of the Rutland fire department died Saturday at the Brattleboro retreat. He was a long time engineer on the Rutland railroad and had been connected with the Rutland fire department for 30 years.

Edward J. Lavelle, station agent of the Central Vermont railway at Brattleboro, has had enough of the job and has tendered his resignation after two months' experience. He has been offered another position with the company.

The Rev. Eric K. M. Jones, formerly pastor of the Universalist Church in Barre, is afflicted with a throat difficulty which may cause the loss of his voice. She has been obliged to give up her duties as her ministerial duties at Waterbury, Iowa.

The Rutland County Telephone & Telegraph company has declared its usual six per cent. dividend and reports itself free from debt or incumbrance. There are now 270 subscribers. A. W. Foote of Middlebury is president and general manager.

Barre's license commissioners decline to give out any information regarding the granting of liquor licenses before the election. At the hearing vigorous objections were made to many of the 50 applicants. The city is entitled to eight saloon licenses and two drugists' licenses.

Again there is a great shortage of freight cars and motive power on the Central Vermont railway at Barre. Some granite manufacturers complain that they have been unable to get shifts on their sidings for a week and that the finished stock is piled up in their yards in consequence.

As the enormous summer traffic last year was altogether too much for the regular White Mountain trains, two new ones will be put on through Brattleboro this season, says the Greenfield Gazette. Railroad men are not surprised or inclined to doubt the story.

For a vicious assault upon a 16-year-old Bellows Falls girl, whose head he pounded with a stone, Joseph Sommers has been fined $50 or three months in the House of Correction at Rutland. His victim, Mary Kelley, is still suffering from the shock. Sommers said he was drunk.

The Spanish bunco game has been turned down by J. O. Blodgett of East Barre. A letter from Madrid, Spain, beseeching him to come to the aid of an imprisoned Russian banker in order to save the fortune of the banker's daughter with pecuniary profit to Mr. Blodgett, remains unanswered.

The Rutland fire department has answered 13 calls this month, the largest number in any one month since the organization of the paid department. So far this year there have been 28 calls. The average number of alarms for the entire 12 months of previous years has been about 30.

The Hooker, Corser & Mitchell company of Brattleboro has concluded that the only way to keep up with its orders is to establish a branch factory in some other town. It seems impossible to get any more help in Brattleboro. The company manufactures overalls and blouses.

are annoying land owners by their depredations. Six sons of the sunny climate were the mainstay of the company, which was charged with cutting wood on the Barber farm in Pownal and upon the production of 200 cash had been released.

An experiment in wood burning conducted by several boys in the timberland of the Brattleboro retreat was more successful than expected. The fire soon got beyond their control, and a hopeful was turned about the face attempting to extinguish it and all cried lustily for help. Men from the retreat were able to get the blaze under control after a hard fight.

The back-spring has kept the veterans at the Soldiers Home in Bennington from asking for their customary furloughs with the result that there are more at the home than at any corresponding period of the year. Since the institution was founded, it is noted that, with increasing age, the veterans take shorter leaves of absence.

The new electric railway at Bennington is believed by the engineer in charge of construction, will be in operation by June 1. The rails are all laid with the exception of 1,400 feet through the clay cut at Pownal Center. There is yet a large amount of ballasting to be done but work of this kind will have to be continued some time after the road is opened.

On application of the Windham County Fish and Game Protective association, 50,000 trout fry have been sent there from the State fish hatchery. Bellows Falls received 20,000 and the remainder went to Brattleboro, George W. Pierce, warden of the State prison, taking 15,000 for distribution in the brooks around that village. South Londonderry and Wardsboro also got some.

George L. Bunker of North Troy, sentenced to two years in State prison for cattle stealing, escaped from the officer who was taking him to Windsor by jumping through a window while the train was speeding along just below White River Junction. He turned a somersault out of the toilet room, struck the ground with tremendous force and hiked for the woods, apparently uninjured.

Fred May, who has worked in food-stocks, Pomfret, Hartford and other places, has been arrested at Norwich and is held in county jail at Woodstock for the June term of court on the charge of kidnapping. It appears that May obtained a marriage license by giving the age of his 14-year-old bride, Florence, daughter of a farmer's daughter, as 18 years. He married the girl in Norwich but their honeymoon was short.

N. H. Loomis, who was born in Hightree, N. H., in 1862, has been offered the position of counselor in charge of all the law cases of the Hartman system arising out of the interstate commerce act. He is general attorney for Kansas and Missouri for the Union Pacific railway with office at Topeka, Kans. His new headquarters will be in Chicago. Mr. Loomis' parents moved West in 1878 and he stuck to the farm three years longer.

By an overwhelming vote, Claremont, N. H., has authorized the construction of a 37,000-steel bridge across the Connecticut. New Hampshire will aid in its building to the extent of $8,000 and $5,000 will be contributed by Weatherford, to which Vermont town electric cars will be run from Claremont. The remaining cost will be paid at the rate of $1,000 a year. The franchise and property of the Claremont Bridge company will be bought and the new bridge be free from tolls.

The big paper mill at East Ryegate is shut down indefinitely for repairs on the machinery, owing to the bursting of the big fly wheel of the engine which damaged the plant to the extent of $10,000. In some way the governor of the engine got out of order and the engine's speed increased until the wheel burst. A large piece of iron weighing over a ton went with a fearful splash clear through the four-inch planking of the second floor of the mill, out through the mill and landed near the boarding house several hundred feet away. No one was hurt but the flying rim of the wheel came quite close to some of the workmen.

FIRE AT WEST RUTLAND.

Fire which destroyed four two-story wooden structures at West Rutland early Saturday morning caused a loss of about $25,000, divided as follows: Wash block, owned by William Wainwright, occupied by the owner as meat market, general store and dwelling, two tenements; loss, on building, $1,000, on stock $2,000 to $4,000; insurance about $5,000. Rosen block, owned and occupied by Barney Rosen as a general store and dwelling; loss, on building $2,500, on stock $5,000, on household furniture $1,000, also $250 in money; insurance $1,000. O'Neill block, owned by P. F. O'Neill, occupied by general store of John Koltz on first floor, Koltz's home on second; A. O. H. hall also on second floor; loss, on building $2,500; Koltz's loss $800, insured for $500. McIsaac block, owned by George McIsaac and occupied by meat market of Joseph Biota, and his home; loss, on building $700, insured. Biota saved a large part of his goods.

GUILTY OF BURGLARY.

Bartlett Durant Confesses to Entering Seven Different Places.

Bartlett Durant, arraigned in city court Thursday afternoon for burglary, pleaded guilty to an information filed against him. Sentence in his case was suspended until Friday. The apprehension and conviction of Bartlett, who is 22 years of age, clears up the identity of the perpetrator of an extended series of burglaries, he having confessed to entering seven different places.

As near as can be ascertained he obtained $7 at Jones & Isham's, $14 at the Spear-Martin Fur company's, $450 at the Northern Electric company's, a like amount at the Consumers' Coal & Ice Co.'s office and a pair of gloves from Hooke's insurance agency. He entered the stores of John McKenzie and G. M. Cogswell but is thought not to have obtained anything there.

Thomas Fraser pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $5 and costs of $45, which he paid.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judge Haxelton on Municipal Ownership Problem—Electric Light Plant in Another Town Taxable. (From the St. Albans Messenger.)

A pioneer decision was rendered by Judge Haxelton in Franklin county court in the case of Swanton village vs. the town of Hightgate, an action to recover taxes paid under protest by Swanton village to the town of Hightgate. The court held that such taxes were properly assessed and collected. Those taxes were assessed on the water privileges at Hightgate falls, owned by Swanton village and used to produce power for its electric lighting plant. It was claimed by Swanton village that the purpose, being a public one, no taxes could lawfully be assessed on the property. Defendant claims alleged that the use was not exclusively a public use, that the plant was furnished with individuals outside of Swanton village and for profit. H. A. Hurt and E. A. Ayers were counsel for the plaintiff; H. Charles Royce and D. W. Steele for the defendant.

It is believed that this is the first time this matter has been passed upon in the courts of the United States. In the divorce case of Annie S. Hinkley vs. Ernest E. Hinkley the petition was dismissed, mainly because of the pendency in Washington county of a petition brought by the husband.

In giving judgment in the former case the court said: "We are inclined to think the judgment should be for the defendant town (Hightgate) in paying its costs. The case of Swanton vs. Newport (5th Vt.) seems to go to the very extreme and is authority; but we cannot go beyond its scope. In this case we are confronted with the question of whether the various resources of a town consisting of water privileges and quarries, etc., can be taken by another municipality for its use, and whether it is taken out of the grand list of the town on which the property is situated. There seems to be no question of the power of the Legislature to confer upon municipalities the authority to light its streets and furnish light to its citizens, any more than to give them the right to procure water for domestic use, or to give water to its citizens. But when for carrying out that purpose a municipality goes into a neighboring town and takes the resources of that town, whether it thereby renders the property exempt from taxation, is an entirely different question.

"This case goes considerably beyond the Swanton-Newport case, and presents various questions of far-reaching effect and importance. A town or city might be granted authority for instance to run a line of street railway; there is no doubt the Legislature could grant such authority. The municipality of Glasgow has for a long time operated its line of street railway. If in such cases the power is taken from an adjoining town should not the municipality using the power pay taxes upon the property? If a legislature sees fit to confer upon a city or village the right to take, hold and operate lines of street railway, would that affect the right of outside towns to tax the plant situated in their towns? These various resources are fast being taken up, and taken by cities and villages, and rendered exempt from taxation. Such resources are not available for the development of the town any other way. If they are not available to private enterprise, the town is deprived of its resources.

"The important question here is not as to the right of a municipality to establish an electric light plant for the use and convenience of its citizens, but as to the right of a neighboring town to tax the property within its limits. Whatever the law may be the fair and equitable thing would seem to be that the town should receive the taxation on the property within its borders.

"The case of Swanton reduces $1000 or $5000 income from this lighting plant. The fair and equitable thing would seem to be for the village to fix the price for lights at such a figure as they could afford to pay a reasonable tax to the town of Hightgate on the plant situated there. That may not be the law, but everybody wants to know what is the law of the case, and we are inclined to enter judgment for the defendant and let the case go up in that way.

"As we have stated, the real question here is as to the right of a municipality to take the resources of another town in such a way as to take the property out of the grand list of that town, and in the end impoverish the town. A town which has valuable water privileges, or quarries, or ledges, and such things, regards their possession as a source of wealth and development by private enterprise, and looks to them as a means of enhancement of its grand list. Can a town be deprived of these natural advantages because a municipality takes the place of private enterprise?

"Humors Come to the Surface in the spring as in other seasons. They don't run themselves all off that way, however, but mostly remain in the system. Hood's Sarsaparilla removes them, wards off danger, makes good health sure.

Joseph Brissette in Jail and George Dupont in Hospital.

Joseph Brissette, full of jealous rage over the attentions of George Dupont to Mrs. Brissette, Sunday morning hurled a hammer at his guest's head and in consequence the victim of the assault is now in the Mary Fletcher hospital suffering from a fracture of the frontal bone. It had not yet been ascertained how seriously his injury will terminate.

The assault was the sequel to a Saturday night brawl at the home of the Brissettes on Battery street. Brissette and Dupont, who lives at Lakeside, married sisters. Dupont came up from Lakeside to spend the week-end at his brother-in-law's. The night was spent in carousal, drinking that Dupont, it was reported, Mrs. Brissette had gone far enough the frate husband Sunday morning seized a hammer and struck Dupont in the mid-
